

The fifth sun is dying, shed
not a tear for him.

The sixth sun is coming to warm you with enlightenment.

The sands of the fifth sun's hours are running out. The fifth sun is setting. Will you be ready for a new sun, the sun of enlightenment.

The theme of this exhibit "Children of the Sun," aroused a familiar calling within me. I consider myself a sun child, and as far back as I can recall, I have referred to the sun as Father and the earth as Mother. Instinctively, at an early age, I began my journey to the sun. My fascination with the sun as a child, led me as an adult, to study the cultures of the Maya, Aztec, Inca, Egyptian, and Native Americans, which I refer to as the first sun realists. My fascination with the sun, thusly, placed me on my search for more knowledge of the sun and his children.

It is unfortunate, to say the least, now with mother earth ripped open and the natural resources that once ran through her abundantly are fading, man is solar conscience. Man should of perfected solar people first, then the other would of come naturally. Perhaps without father sun not having to see mother earth ripped open and crying out. Yet we go on, and man is now journeying to the sun and working for harmony between man and nature.

Legends left by the first sun realists, told of such a movement towards the sun in preparation for the coming of the sixth sun, the age of enlightenment. As we reach for the Altaplano of man and nature working in harmony, we journey to the sun.

My respect and fascination for solar energy, the sun, sun legends, and for the first sun realists, is evident in my work. My contribution to this exhibit is done in felt tip pen, on charcoal paper. I've incorporated sun symbols and legends along with my future visions of solar people. Solar people are here and have always been, our forebears the Maya, Aztec, Inca, Egyptian, and Native American, left us the realities of what man can accomplish. Now is the time to develop our inner energy, and use it to work in harmony with nature's energy. The results of that Sun Dance can only result in a harvest of good for the benefit of all mankind.

Jenita Cynthia Alvarez